DOWD'S SERIOUS MISTAKE.

Climbing a Fire Escape and in a Wide-awake Room - Screams After Midnight - Clad by Four Policemen - Don't Get Drunk, But if You Do, Don't Climb the Fire Escape.

From the New York Sun.
Policeman Joseph Weinberg and Palmer of the Mulberry street police, dragged into the Tumb Police Court, yesterday morning, Edward Dowd, a stout, powerful young man. Dowd's head was battered and blood-stained. His upper lip was swollen and cut, his left arm was paralyzed and limp, his breast and abdomen were bruised, his back was black and blue. His left leg, from the hip to the ankle, was covered with bruises, and he could not walk. Policeman Weinberg showed a stab wound on his breast which he said Dowd had given him.

Edward Dowd is a "longshoreman." He has a pale delicate wife, and they live in the third story of the tenement at 73 Mott street. When Dowd is out late at night, instead of ringing at the front door he quietly jumps over a fence, and climbs up the fire escape. His wife, who was crying bitterly yesterday, said: "I always have always entered that way. He don't want to wake up the house he says, and so he goes up what he calls the back stairs."

It was 2 o'clock when Dowd arrived home yesterday morning. He had been drinking, and he went up the fire escape as usual. But he mistook, he says, his landing, and entered the apartments of the widow Adeline Fincke. He staggered to the door, and she supposed his bed, but soon ascertained his mistake. He attempted to apologize, but the widow Adeline Fincke set up a scream after scream, which startled the whole house. Dowd again made for the fire escape, but the police responded, "There were four of them," and Dowd, "and the first I knew I was clubbed down. I shouted I lived in the house, and had made a mistake, but the clubs came down thick and heavy. I did not stab officer Weinberg, but struck out, and I don't see how I could have cut him, for I had nothing in my hand. I may have picked up something to defend myself, but see how they clubbed me. I cried to them to let up; that I lived in that house, but all I got was, 'Club the ——— to death.' The first I knew Weinberg screamed out, 'I'm stabbed,' and then fell down in a faint. I don't know what took place after that, for I must have fainted they clubbed me so hard."

"There were enough of them," added Dowd, "even if I had shown fight, to have arrested me, but I was doing nothing wrong, any way. In the police station when I asked for a glass of water they rammed a pistol down my throat, and caused these wounds."

Justice Flimmer committed Dowd for stabbing Policeman Weinberg.

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

The most modest girl in the country is dead now. She refused to leave a burning building in South Bend, Indiana, because she was in her night clothes.

That was a pretty compliment paid by a member of the Chinese Embassy recently to a young lady. Gazing down at her really pretty shoes, the Oriental remarked: "I love your English large feet."

A Michigan tramp who has been shot at five times by farmers' wives, says he has only to watch the end of the gun to avoid the contents, as a woman always shoots both eyes when she pulls the trigger. -Detroit Free Press.

The Home for Friendless Girls at Deptford, England, was a murderous fraud. Laura Addiscott, its founder and mistress, was assiduous in soliciting subscriptions, while she slowly starved the inmates on short rations of bread, molasses, and oatmeal. Four little girls died, and an investigation disclosed the wretchedness of the place. The woman was tried on a charge of manslaughter, and narrowly escaped conviction.

Her First Husband's Return.

Oswego, Aug. 34. -John Yule teaches school at Barker Hill, Oswego Town. Ten years ago, while working in Madison county as a hop picker, he became acquainted with and married a young woman whose husband had been hurt three years previous on a Western railroad, and was supposed to be dead. Mr. and Mrs. Yule have lived happily together. About three weeks ago a stranger called at Yule's house with a carriage, and Mrs. Yule went away with him and was gone two days. When she returned she told John that the stranger was her first husband, who, not having been killed, and determined to hunt her up, and visiting her parents had learned what happened and where she lived. He demands her, and John says that, inasmuch as she really belongs to him, he is willing to give her up. The worthy couple are considering what it is best to do, and they probably will separate.

Fell Dead While Laughing.

SPRINGFIELD, Aug. 24. -Mary Perry, aged 74, sat at tea with some friends. They were relating funny incidents, and Mrs. Perry became convulsed with laughter and fell back in her chair, dead.

FELINE ELECTRICITY.

The Most Remarkable Invention of the Day - A Battery of Cats - The Power of the Current Invention.

The most remarkable of this or of any other age is duly chronicled by the Columbus (Ohio) Dispatch. It is based upon the electric properties of the fur of cats. With a battery of 128 cats the inventor succeeded in generating a current so strong that it instantly polarized all the lightning arresters and demagnetized all the switch-boards on the way to Omaha. The operators all along the line were terror-stricken, and rushed from their offices. Eighteen hundred and nine insulators and as many poles were shattered, as if by lightning. A great deal more damage would doubtless have resulted if the copper rod over which the battery was suspended had not suddenly become red hot and burned the tails off the cats and let them drop. When only a moderately strong current of electricity is desired, it is obtained by densely populating the small floor of the cage, which is made of sheet copper, that being the best conductor. The electricity thus generated charges the copper floor of the cage, and as it cannot pass off to the ground through the glass insulators it seeks its exit over the wires that are connected by soldering to each end of the copper plate. For generating a powerful current, the cats are carefully and securely tied tail to tail in pairs, and by the loop thus formed they are suspended from a heavy insulated copper rod that passes longitudinally through the cage, to the ends of which are attached the telegraph or telephone lines.

The Fortunes of the Presidents.

From the Baltimore Gazette.

Washington left an estate worth $800,000. John Adams died moderately well off. Jefferson died so poor that if congress had not given $20,000 for his library he would have been bankrupt. Madison was economical and died rich. Monroe died so poor that he was buried at the expense of his relatives in this city. John Quincy Adams left about $50,000, the result of prudence. His son, Charles Francis Adams, gained a large fortune by marriage. Jackson died tolerably well off. Van Buren died worth some $300,000. It is said that during his entire administration he never drew any portion of his salary, but on leaving took the whole $100,000 in a lump. Polk left about $150,000. Tyler married a lady of wealth and accomplishments, and died rich. Taylor left about $150,000. Fillmore was always an economical man, and added to his wealth by his last marriage. Pierce saved about $50,000. Buchanan left about $200,000; Lincoln about $75,000; Johnson about $50,000.

Bees in a Man's Ear.

York (Pa.) Daily.

We frequently hear of bees creeping into the ears of people, which is generally attended with great danger and considerable pain. A case of this kind was reported to us last week. A bee entered one of the ears of David Diebenknecht, of Lower Windor Township, and although it would work its way out so far as to be seen, all methods adopted to eject it out from its hiding place proved unavailable; finally, smoking a cigar was proposed, and, by closing the nose and forcing the smoke down the throat, into the eustachian tubes that connect with the head, it had the desired effect to drive the troublesome insect out, and thus relieved Mr. Diebenknecht from any further trouble. This is a very simple and certain remedy.

Maryland Mosquitoes.

From the New York Tribune.

The mosquito plague on the eastern shore of Maryland must be very bad. The superintendent and train hands of the railroad near Cambridge declare that the mosquitoes have been so thick as to obscure the light of the sun, and that lighted lamps have been necessary at mid-day in the stores and counting-rooms. A newspaper correspondent writes: "Never in the history of Tyaskin have the mosquitoes been so thick as they have been during the past week. There is no rest night or day; our only remedy is smoke! smoke! And we have smoked so much that our old women and young women, too, look like dried beef on the hoof."

Where the Profit is in Beer is.

From the Boston Commercial Bulletin.
A German who keeps a tavern by nine lager-beer shops at the South End treated himself to a day's vacation recently, leaving his son in charge of "her pizzazz" and a keg of beer. On his return he found the keg empty and addressed his offspring as follows: "How is dis, Yawcob, dot you make me only nod dollar and dirty cents for dose keg of beer? Show me how you draw der beer." Yawcob took the glass and drew it nearly full of beer, with but the least margin of froth, when the old gentleman, seizing his hand, said: "You make dose glasses stand higher down from der keg, Yawcob, der profit in der pizzazz is in der pizzazz!"

A METHODIST CHURCH BROKEN UP.

The Methodist Church at Ruby Hill is a bad way. The trouble began with the misconduct of one of the deacons, named Rene Atkins. Rene is a flirt and during service sought to smite the hearts of the pretty girls in the congregation. At last he occasioned a disturbance in the church by seeking, during a Sabbath evening service, to enfold a modest damsel in his ardent arms. Rene promised to reform and the congregation overlooked his bad behavior.

But now the church is again in trouble because of the frailty of its shepherd. The Rev. Philo Phelps fell in love with one fair woman of his flock. Unhappily for the pastor the fair woman had a husband, and the clerical admirer merely looked the love he did not care or dare to speak. But he betrayed himself by preaching his sermon to her instead of his congregation. The husband, who, it appears, is an ungodly man and a total abstainer from church, heard of the Rev. Philo Phelps' exclusive attention to his better half, and was exceeding wroth thereat. So, being an ungodly person, he procured the key of the church, locked the door and fastened the windows, so that no services have since been held. And the congregation have become so demoralized that they offer the church for sale.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

J. E. Duff, the absconding auditor of the Eureka & Palisade Railroad, has been captured in Honolulu. He got away with about $50,000 of the company's money while in their employ. Not long ago he suddenly disappeared from Eureka and took passage in a sailing vessel for Honolulu. A detective got there first by steamer and caught his man. The Eureka Sentinel thus describes the situation: "He has been kept in jail from that time until this. Our extradition laws with the Hawaiian Government are such that a man guilty of embezzlement cannot be forced to return. Had Auditor Duff committed a murder or even a forgery he would have been brought back without delay. As the matter stands he can be kept in prison there as long as the parties here will pay the expenses of his incarceration. That being a cheap country, so to speak, it will not cost a very great sum to hold him for several years. The railroad officers are determined that he shall tell what he has done with the money of the Company."

A paragraph in reference to a rumor that Miss Ida Dun had confessed to a full knowledge of the Westland affair, is now going the rounds of the coast papers, credited to the Reno Gazette. It appeared in this paper, but was copied from a California exchange and the proper credit given. In reprinting, verbatim, matter of importance from exchanges, the GAZETTE never omits to give credit save through negligence. And, in connection, it may be remarked that the Carson Tribune is a shining example of the opposite practice.

Policeman Pat Lydon, of Mammoth City, was presented with a handsome bob-tailed brindle dog. He put the pet in his room and went on duty. The dog whined away an hour or two of solitude by tearing up a hair mattress, fine overcoat, three pairs of blankets, sundry shirts, etc., and when the master returned was trying to gnaw the barrel of a revolver. The pet dropped the pistol to spring at his master's throat, but Pat fired at him and induced him to desist.

It would be interesting to know how far the Virginia Chronicle and other papers engaged in stirring up an anti-railroad war are influenced by good motives, and how far by bad; how much they study the good of the state of Nevada, and how much their own petty schemes and ambitions. Unfortunately, politics is not an exact science and consequently is not capable of mathematical demonstration, and the biggest blower often gets the most followers.

A Tuscarora, who has just returned to the northern metropolis from Yankee Fork, while waiting in bed for his shirt to be washed, explained to a Times-Review reporter that he went there twelve months too soon. He took a good time for coming back though.

A burglar robbed a house in Montevideo and could not resist the temptation to kiss a beautiful woman, as she lay asleep. But he woke her in so doing, and she afterwards recognized him off the street and had him arrested. She must have found it very hard to inform on him, or else she was a very unwomanly woman.

The Smithsonian Institute has announced the discovery of a new comet. Popular interest in a comet centers in its tail, but no details have been given of the discovery, and the new comet may prove to be a tailless thing, unworthy the attention of the public.

The property owners in Iowa Hill School District, Placer county, have consented to be taxed a second time without authority of law in order to pay off the debt on their new school house.

The Tuscarorers are always making big strikes. If they would stop striking, and reduce their ore, the mining news editor of the Enterprise would doubtless feel relieved.

The lick trustees cannot proceed with the work of erecting an observatory, except at their own risk, until the Supreme Court shall have decided relative to the compromise with John H. Lick.

A Pin Six Years in Her Stomach.

From the Eureka Leader.

A singular circumstance was reported to us to-day by a member of the medical fraternity. He was called to see the wife of John Raymond, living on Nob Hill. The lady had been quite ill for a number of days, complaining of nausea of the stomach, and yesterday she vomited up a pin that she had swallowed six years ago. The ejunction of the foreign substance produced immediate relief, and she has recovered her usual health. The pin was so corroded that it crumbled and broke when handled.

Robert's Rhetorical Retelling.

Robert G. Ingersoll renders a decision, and gives his opinion of woman. He says: "I tell you women are more prudent than men. I tell you, as a rule, women are more faithful than men—ten times as faithful as men. I never saw a man pursue his wife into the very ditch and dust of degradation and take her in his arms. I never saw a man stand at the shore where she had been morally wrecked, waiting for the waves to bring back even her corpse to his arms; but I have seen woman, with her white arms lifted from the mire of degradation, and hold him to her bosom as though he were an angel."

Catfish in Hot Water.

From the Virginia Enterprise.

The catfish planted in the cooling pond at the Overman works thrive remarkably, though in places the water has a temperature of 130 degrees. This is at and about the point where the water comes from the condenser. Having grown in the pond the fish are accustomed to the water, and sail through even the hottest spot with perfect impunity and without even so much as an extra wiggle of the tail.

The Sprague-Cooking Affair.

To-day no man brings a tangible accusation against him (Senator Conkling). His most valuable assistants stop short of that. Even Gov. Sprague makes no charge—Tribune.

It appears to be a pretty well established historical fact that Gov. Sprague rammed the charge into the shotgun with which he drove Senator Conkling off his premises—Sun.

Bad News From the Metropolis.

From the Pasaden Times-Review.

A horse race is arranged to come off on Sunday near town.

Recently James G. Fair received a lot of ore samples from British Columbia. They were of great weight, "highly metallic," and different from any California or Nevada rock. But assays showed that none of them contained any gold or silver.

The New York Mining Record states that it received news of important developments on the fourteenth level of the Eureka Consolidated about the 10th inst. It must have been reliable, comments the Leader, as that part of the mine was under water at the time, and had been in that condition for a month prior to that date.

Five men on a hand car were following a freight train from Virginia last Saturday evening. The freight train stopped at the Silver City switch, and the hand car was so close behind and going so fast that the men could not stop it, and collided with the freight. One man broke his leg, another his nose, and all were badly bruised.

Heretofore it was supposed that potatoes could not be raised elsewhere than in the canyons of the mountain ranges, but the farmers on Big Meadows have demonstrated that as good potatoes can be raised in the valley at that place as in the canyons. The Silver State is informed that several farmers near Lovelock, have engaged pretty extensively in the potato business this season, and have fine crops.

Millions of People Starved to Death.

From the New York Sun.

It is difficult to believe that a multitude of people equal in number to one-fourth the population of the United States have recently been destroyed by famine in China—yet such is the statement that comes from the authority of Mr. Forrest, the English Consul at Tientsin. Nor has the terrible visitation yet passed away; while Grant was hobnobbing with his Imperial Highness Prince Kung, thousands of wretches were starving to death in the dominions ruled by Kung.

It Was a Cherry Stone.

From the Nevada City Transcript.

Annie, the seven year old daughter of Wilkes Hall, of this city, has ever since she was a mere infant been troubled with what was supposed to be catarrh in the head. She has been subjected to much medical treatment, but found no relief. A day or two since a cherry stone worked its way out of her head through one of her nostrils. Since then she has not suffered any from the complaint; which was supposed to be chronic.

A New Name For Lying.

From the Eureka Leader.

Speaking of the exaggerations indulged in by an acquaintance, who is a notorious liar, the Judge drew it mildly by remarking "that he was afflicted with emotional paralysis of the memory."

He Has Not Yet Said the Words.

From the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

If Gen. Grant really did not want the nomination he would have settled the question long ago by a very few words.

Down With Monopoly.

The citizens of Reno having suffered long enough under the monopoly of one bakery, the Palace Bakery, (next door to the Arcade Restaurant), offered to every one buying 25 cents worth of bread, six loaves for that sum as to quality, I challenge any baker for $100 a side, at produce prices, or to deliver bread, gratis. Otto Martens, Palace Bakery.
